

silenced

voices

Censorship in the Yulin Dog Meat Festival

Government censorship in China severely limits public awareness of the cruel practices involved in the dog meat industry, especially during the Yulin Dog Meat Festival. The limited information and monitored networks make it especially challenging for domestic and international organizations to have their voices be heard.