

The novel is set in London, the capital of Airstrip One, which was formerly known as Britain and Ireland. The book written by Goldstein clarifies that the three ideologies are essentially the same, but it is crucial to prevent the public from knowing this fact. The population is made to believe that the other two ideologies are abhorrent.

